The steps in applying for Financial Assistance can be found here.

State and federal student aid programs, administered by the Office of Financial Aid, include loans, grants, and work opportunities. The type and amount of aid available to a student usually depends on need and academic achievement, although other factors may be considered. The University considers all applicants without regard to gender, race, or creed. Complete applications for financial aid must be filed in the Office of Financial Aid before May 1 to be considered for the following fall and spring semesters and the summer sessions.
